Erratum

Stereotactic radiosurgery and the linear accelerator: accelerating electrons in neurosurgery

To The Editor: Thank you for publishing our paper entitled “Stereotactic radiosurgery and the linear accelerator: accelerating electrons in neurosurgery” (Neurosurg Focus 27 (3):E13, September 2009; DOI: 10.3171/2009/7.FOCUS 09116). After publication we realized that Figures 4 and 5 were reversed and the wording of their legends were in error. The corrected figures and legends are given below. We wish to inform the readers about this correction and are pleased that the error was corrected as of October 1, 2009.

MARYAM RAHMAN, M.D.,
University of Florida
Gainsville, Florida

Fig. 4. Photograph of the CyberKnife: a LINAC with a robotic arm.

Fig. 5. Illustration of the Trilogy system with inline CT scanner for target localization prior to treatment.